

Seems like your concepts aren't clear

You have scored 0%

Skipped (45/45)

Question 1

Read the passage carefully and answer the question that follows.

Asking my father for a favour was something one had to be careful about. One weekend, my brother Dave and I had a friend's birthday party to attend. Everybody in our class talked about attending this party, and we wouldn't dream of missing it for the world. On Saturday morning, Dave and I woke up early and decided to be extra good to win our dad's favour and ultimately his kind permission to allow us to go to the party.

Before he woke up, we had his breakfast ready, swept the front steps and compound, took out the garbage, cleaned the sitting room and the floors; finally, we decided to wash his car and give it a good shine. We finished cleaning his car in no time, and when it was dry, we waxed it, polished and buffed the car with sweat running down our brows. As we were wiping the vehicle, we noticed that we were making circles on the grey paint. Lo and behold, a piece of the nail stuck onto the cloth that was causing the scratch. We panicked and wondered what we should do?

Dave was looking at me without winking; then I had an idea. I rushed to the garage, poured some liquid that I thought would mend the damage on a cloth, rushed outside and started vigorously rubbing on the scratches in an attempt to remove the scratches. It was Dave's screamed that made me stop; the paint was peeling. Talk about adding insult to injury; Just then, we saw dad standing on the front step beaming at us. Needless to say, his smiles quickly vanished when he realized what was happening. We were being chased around the compound with a nearby mango tree branch the next thing we knew. Do I need to add that we never attended that party?

What were the brothers trying to gain with all their hard work?

- a. Some pocket money
- ✓ b. Their father's favour
- c. Their father's permission
- d. Some extra love

Question 2

Read the passage carefully and answer the question that follows.

Asking my father for a favour was something one had to be careful about. One weekend, my brother Dave and I had a friend's birthday party to attend. Everybody in our class talked about attending this party, and we wouldn't dream of missing it for the world. On Saturday morning, Dave and I woke up early and decided to be extra good to win our dad's favour and ultimately his kind permission to allow us to go to the party.

Before he woke up, we had his breakfast ready, swept the front steps and compound, took out the garbage, cleaned the sitting room and the floors; finally, we decided to wash his car and give it a good shine. We finished cleaning his car in no time, and when it was dry, we waxed it, polished and buffed the car with sweat running down our brows. As we were wiping the vehicle, we noticed that we were making circles on the grey paint. Lo and behold, a piece of the nail stuck onto the cloth that was causing the scratch. We panicked and wondered what we should do?

Dave was looking at me without winking; then I had an idea. I rushed to the garage, poured some liquid that I thought would mend the damage on a cloth, rushed outside and started vigorously rubbing on the scratches in an attempt to remove the scratches. It was Dave's screamed that made me stop; the paint was peeling. Talk about adding insult to injury; Just then, we saw dad standing on the front step beaming at us. Needless to say, his smiles quickly vanished when he realized what was happening. We were being chased around the compound with a nearby mango tree branch the next thing we knew. Do I need to add that we never attended that party?

What made their effort unsuccessful?

- ✓ a. The scratches on the car
- b. The garbage they took out
- c. The breakfast they made
- d. The leaves in the yard

Question 3

Read the passage carefully and answer the question that follows.

Asking my father for a favour was something one had to be careful about. One weekend, my brother Dave and I had a friend's birthday party to attend. Everybody in our class talked about attending this party, and we wouldn't dream of missing it for the world. On Saturday morning, Dave and I woke up early and decided to be extra good to win our dad's favour and ultimately his kind permission to allow us to go to the party.

Before he woke up, we had his breakfast ready, swept the front steps and compound, took out the garbage, cleaned the sitting room and the floors; finally, we decided to wash his car and give it a good shine. We finished cleaning his car in no time, and when it was dry, we waxed it, polished and buffed the car with sweat running down our brows. As we were wiping the vehicle, we noticed that we were making circles on the grey paint. Lo and behold, a piece of the nail stuck onto the cloth that was causing the scratch. We panicked and wondered what we should do?

Dave was looking at me without winking; then I had an idea. I rushed to the garage, poured some liquid that I thought would mend the damage on a cloth, rushed outside and started vigorously rubbing on the scratches in an attempt to remove the scratches. It was Dave's screamed that made me stop; the paint was peeling. Talk about adding insult to injury; Just then, we saw dad standing on the front step beaming at us. Needless to say, his smiles quickly vanished when he realized what was happening. We were being chased around the compound with a nearby mango tree branch the next thing we knew. Do I need to add that we never attended that party?

How does the writer feel when the paint starts to peel off?

- a. Angry
- ✓ b. Disappointed
- c. Amazed
- d. Proud

Question 4

Read the passage carefully and answer the question that follows.

Asking my father for a favour was something one had to be careful about. One weekend, my brother Dave and I had a friend's birthday party to attend. Everybody in our class talked about attending this party, and we wouldn't dream of missing it for the world. On Saturday morning, Dave and I woke up early and decided to be extra good to win our dad's favour and ultimately his kind permission to allow us to go to the party.

Before he woke up, we had his breakfast ready, swept the front steps and compound, took out the garbage, cleaned the sitting room and the floors; finally, we decided to wash his car and give it a good shine. We finished cleaning his car in no time, and when it was dry, we waxed it, polished and buffed the car with sweat running down our brows. As we were wiping the vehicle, we noticed that we were making circles on the grey paint. Lo and behold, a piece of the nail stuck onto the cloth that was causing the scratch. We panicked and wondered what we should do?

Dave was looking at me without winking; then I had an idea. I rushed to the garage, poured some liquid that I thought would mend the damage on a cloth, rushed outside and started vigorously rubbing on the scratches in an attempt to remove the scratches. It was Dave's screamed that made me stop; the paint was peeling. Talk about adding insult to injury; Just then, we saw dad standing on the front step beaming at us. Needless to say, his smiles quickly vanished when he realized what was happening. We were being chased around the compound with a nearby mango tree branch the next thing we knew. Do I need to add that we never attended that party?

The expression "adding insult to injury" as used in the passage means?

- a. Mending the damage
- b. Consoling their father
- ✓ c. Making the situation worse
- d. Offending Dave

Question 5

Read the passage carefully and answer the question that follows.

Asking my father for a favour was something one had to be careful about. One weekend, my brother Dave and I had a friend's birthday party to attend. Everybody in our class talked about attending this party, and we wouldn't dream of missing it for the world. On Saturday morning, Dave and I woke up early and decided to be extra good to win our dad's favour and ultimately his kind permission to allow us to go to the party.

Before he woke up, we had his breakfast ready, swept the front steps and compound, took out the garbage, cleaned the sitting room and the floors; finally, we decided to wash his car and give it a good shine. We finished cleaning his car in no time, and when it was dry, we waxed it, polished and buffed the car with sweat running down our brows. As we were wiping the vehicle, we noticed that we were making circles on the grey paint. Lo and behold, a piece of the nail stuck onto the cloth that was causing the scratch. We panicked and wondered what we should do?

Dave was looking at me without winking; then I had an idea. I rushed to the garage, poured some liquid that I thought would mend the damage on a cloth, rushed outside and started vigorously rubbing on the scratches in an attempt to remove the scratches. It was Dave's screamed that made me stop; the paint was peeling. Talk about adding insult to injury; Just then, we saw dad standing on the front step beaming at us. Needless to say, his smiles quickly vanished when he realized what was happening. We were being chased around the compound with a nearby mango tree branch the next thing we knew. Do I need to add that we never attended that party?

Which of the following statements is true according to the passage?

- a. The car was washed but not properly polished.
- b. Dave and his brother woke up early but did not have breakfast
- ✓ c. Dave and his brother worked so hard for something which they ended up not having.
- d. Their father only woke up when all the chores were completed.

4. Their teacher only woke up when all the circles were completed.

Question 6

Read the passage carefully and answer the question that follows.

Asking my father for a favour was something one had to be careful about. One weekend, my brother Dave and I had a friend's birthday party to attend. Everybody in our class talked about attending this party, and we wouldn't dream of missing it for the world. On Saturday morning, Dave and I woke up early and decided to be extra good to win our dad's favour and ultimately his kind permission to allow us to go to the party.

Before he woke up, we had his breakfast ready, swept the front steps and compound, took out the garbage, cleaned the sitting room and the floors; finally, we decided to wash his car and give it a good shine. We finished cleaning his car in no time, and when it was dry, we waxed it, polished and buffed the car with sweat running down our brows. As we were wiping the vehicle, we noticed that we were making circles on the grey paint. Lo and behold, a piece of the nail stuck onto the cloth that was causing the scratch. We panicked and wondered what we should do?

Dave was looking at me without winking; then I had an idea. I rushed to the garage, poured some liquid that I thought would mend the damage on a cloth, rushed outside and started vigorously rubbing on the scratches in an attempt to remove the scratches. It was Dave's screamed that made me stop; the paint was peeling. Talk about adding insult to injury; Just then, we saw dad standing on the front step beaming at us. Needless to say, his smiles quickly vanished when he realized what was happening. We were being chased around the compound with a nearby mango tree branch the next thing we knew. Do I need to add that we never attended that party?

Which of the following words from the passage means 'with a lot of energy'?

- a. Ultimately
- b. Vanished
- ✓ c. Vigorously
- d. Buffed

Question 7

Read the passage carefully and answer the question that follows.

Asking my father for a favour was something one had to be careful about. One weekend, my brother Dave and I had a friend's birthday party to attend. Everybody in our class talked about attending this party, and we wouldn't dream of missing it for the world. On Saturday morning, Dave and I woke up early and decided to be extra good to win our dad's favour and ultimately his kind permission to allow us to go to the party.

Before he woke up, we had his breakfast ready, swept the front steps and compound, took out the garbage, cleaned the sitting room and the floors; finally, we decided to wash his car and give it a good shine. We finished cleaning his car in no time, and when it was dry, we waxed it, polished and buffed the car with sweat running down our brows. As we were wiping the vehicle, we noticed that we were making circles on the grey paint. Lo and behold, a piece of the nail stuck onto the cloth that was causing the scratch. We panicked and wondered what we should do?

Dave was looking at me without winking; then I had an idea. I rushed to the garage, poured some liquid that I thought would mend the damage on a cloth, rushed outside and started vigorously rubbing on the scratches in an attempt to remove the scratches. It was Dave's screamed that made me stop; the paint was peeling. Talk about adding insult to injury; Just then, we saw dad standing on the front step beaming at us. Needless to say, his smiles quickly vanished when he realized what was happening. We were being chased around the compound with a nearby mango tree branch the next thing we knew. Do I need to add that we never attended that party?

The appropriate title for this passage is _____.

- a. "A father discipline his children".
- b. "Doing chores on Saturday morning".
- ✓ c. "How two brother ruined their father's car".
- d. "Dave works hard to attend a party".

Question 8

Choose the one which best completes the sentence.

My cousin regularly _____ late at night.

- a. eaten
- b. eat
- ✓ c. eats
- d. eating

Question 9

Choose the one which best completes the sentence.

She is very jovial _____ she is an orphan.

- ✓ a. though
- b. since

- c. as
- d. even

Question 10

Choose the one which best completes the sentence.

Can I have a chat _____ you?

- a. on
- b. to
- ✓ c. with
- d. by

Question 11

Choose the one which best completes the sentence.

He showed me the car _____; knocked him down.

- a. who
- ✓ b. which
- c. whom
- d. what

Question 12

Choose the one which best completes the sentence.

The rains had _____ stopped when we set off.

- a. now
- ✓ b. already
- c. yet
- d. filter

Question 13

After the sentence, a list of possible interpretation of the underlined expression in the sentence is given. Choose from the interpretations lettered A to D the most appropriate one.

Tom's television is a white elephant. This means that Tom's television is _____.

- ✓ a. no longer working.
- b. always in one place.
- c. very big
- d. like a big elephant.

Question 14

After the sentence, a list of possible interpretation of the underlined expression in the sentence is given. Choose from the interpretations lettered A to D the most appropriate one.

Our record in sport is second to none. This means that our record is _____.

- a. nothing.
- ✓ b. the best.
- c. the worst.
- d. above none.

Question 15

After the sentence, a list of possible interpretation of the underlined expression in the sentence is given. Choose from the interpretations lettered A to D the most appropriate one.

His grandfather drinks like a fish. This means his grandfather is a _____.

- ✓ a. drunkard.
- b. plumber
- c. dancer.

d. fisherman

Question 16

Choose the correct passive form of the sentence.

The woodcutter was cutting the wood.

- a. The wood was being cut by the woodcutter
- ✓ b. The wood is being cut by the woodcutter.
- c. The wood was cut by the woodcutter.
- d. The wood is cut by the woodcutter.

Question 17

Choose the correct passive form of the sentence.

The dog is barking at the stranger.

- a. The stranger was being barked at by the dog.
- b. The stranger had been barked at by the dog.
- c. The stranger was barked at by the dog.
- ✓ d. The stranger is being barked at by the dog.

Question 18

Passage - Read the passage and answer the question that follows.

"The standard of education has fallen" is the song found on the lips of almost everyone in our country. This is because today's students have broken the good relationship that yesterday's students had built with education. Let us go back in time. Yesterday, students kept their focus. Education was a priority of every student. However, they faced numerous challenges like lack of adequate electricity, transportation etc. Yet their performances in internal and external examinations were superb. They invested so much pride in the number of awards received on the prize-giving day. For them, examination malpractice was taboo. This was so because no one wanted his or her pride to be wounded. They, therefore, embraced reading their notes and doing assignments at night.

Today, students are driven by the desire to make quick money and fame at their studies' expense. They see education as a painstaking route to success, no wonder why they abandon school to become musicians, footballers and other celebrities. They invest so much pride in the number of expensive mobile phones and iPods they carry. Even though they have access to all the aids to education like adequate electricity, transportation, and technology, their performances in internal and external examinations are nothing to write home about. They spend valuable time on Facebook and WhatsApp, chatting and dating. This normally prevents them from reading their notes and doing assignments. For them, examination malpractice is an accepted academic norm. So why worry?

Why does everyone say that the standard of education has fallen?

- a. Students enjoy expensive phones
- b. Transportation is difficult
- c. The classrooms are overcrowded
- ✓ d. Students are not doing well in school

Question 19

Passage - Read the passage and answer the question that follows.

"The standard of education has fallen" is the song found on the lips of almost everyone in our country. This is because today's students have broken the good relationship that yesterday's students had built with education. Let us go back in time. Yesterday, students kept their focus. Education was a priority of every student. However, they faced numerous challenges like lack of adequate electricity, transportation etc. Yet their performances in internal and external examinations were superb. They invested so much pride in the number of awards received on the prize-giving day. For them, examination malpractice was taboo. This was so because no one wanted his or her pride to be wounded. They, therefore, embraced reading their notes and doing assignments at night.

Today, students are driven by the desire to make quick money and fame at their studies' expense. They see education as a painstaking route to success, no wonder why they abandon school to become musicians, footballers and other celebrities. They invest so much pride in the number of expensive mobile phones and iPods they carry. Even though they have access to all the aids to education like adequate electricity, transportation, and technology, their performances in internal and external examinations are nothing to write home about. They spend valuable time on Facebook and WhatsApp, chatting and dating. This normally prevents them from reading their notes and doing assignments. For them, examination malpractice is an accepted academic norm. So why worry?

What was the pride in students of yesterday?

- ✓ a. Awards received on prize giving day
- b. Chatting on Facebook
- c. Expensive mobile phones

d. Comfortable lifestyle

Question 20

Passage - Read the passage and answer the question that follows.

"The standard of education has fallen" is the song found on the lips of almost everyone in our country. This is because today's students have broken the good relationship that yesterday's students had built with education. Let us go back in time. Yesterday, students kept their focus. Education was a priority of every student. However, they faced numerous challenges like lack of adequate electricity, transportation etc. Yet their performances in internal and external examinations were superb. They invested so much pride in the number of awards received on the prize-giving day. For them, examination malpractice was taboo. This was so because no one wanted his or her pride to be wounded. They, therefore, embraced reading their notes and doing assignments at night.

Today, students are driven by the desire to make quick money and fame at their studies' expense. They see education as a painstaking route to success, no wonder why they abandon school to become musicians, footballers and other celebrities. They invest so much pride in the number of expensive mobile phones and iPods they carry. Even though they have access to all the aids to education like adequate electricity, transportation, and technology, their performances in internal and external examinations are nothing to write home about. They spend valuable time on Facebook and WhatsApp, chatting and dating. This normally prevents them from reading their notes and doing assignments. For them, examination malpractice is an accepted academic norm. So why worry?

Why was examination malpractice avoided in students of yesterday?

- a. They were poor so they avoided trouble
- ✓ b. They valued their pride
- c. They wanted a lot of awards
- d. They embraced reading and doing assignments

Question 21

Passage - Read the passage and answer the question that follows.

"The standard of education has fallen" is the song found on the lips of almost everyone in our country. This is because today's students have broken the good relationship that yesterday's students had built with education. Let us go back in time. Yesterday, students kept their focus. Education was a priority of every student. However, they faced numerous challenges like lack of adequate electricity, transportation etc. Yet their performances in internal and external examinations were superb. They invested so much pride in the number of awards received on the prize-giving day. For them, examination malpractice was taboo. This was so because no one wanted his or her pride to be wounded. They, therefore, embraced reading their notes and doing assignments at night.

Today, students are driven by the desire to make quick money and fame at their studies' expense. They see education as a painstaking route to success, no wonder why they abandon school to become musicians, footballers and other celebrities. They invest so much pride in the number of expensive mobile phones and iPods they carry. Even though they have access to all the aids to education like adequate electricity, transportation, and technology, their performances in internal and external examinations are nothing to write home about. They spend valuable time on Facebook and WhatsApp, chatting and dating. This normally prevents them from reading their notes and doing assignments. For them, examination malpractice is an accepted academic norm. So why worry?

What were the challenges of students of yesterday?

- a. Lack of reading materials and teachers
- b. Lack of parental control and money
- ✓ c. Lack of transportation and electricity
- d. Lack of mobile phones and iPods

Question 22

Passage - Read the passage and answer the question that follows.

"The standard of education has fallen" is the song found on the lips of almost everyone in our country. This is because today's students have broken the good relationship that yesterday's students had built with education. Let us go back in time. Yesterday, students kept their focus. Education was a priority of every student. However, they faced numerous challenges like lack of adequate electricity, transportation etc. Yet their performances in internal and external examinations were superb. They invested so much pride in the number of awards received on the prize-giving day. For them, examination malpractice was taboo. This was so because no one wanted his or her pride to be wounded. They, therefore, embraced reading their notes and doing assignments at night.

Today, students are driven by the desire to make quick money and fame at their studies' expense. They see education as a painstaking route to success, no wonder why they abandon school to become musicians, footballers and other celebrities. They invest so much pride in the number of expensive mobile phones and iPods they carry. Even though they have access to all the aids to education like adequate electricity, transportation, and technology, their performances in internal and external examinations are nothing to write home about. They spend valuable time on Facebook and WhatsApp, chatting and dating. This normally prevents them from reading their notes and doing assignments. For them, examination malpractice is an accepted academic norm. So why worry?

What are the desires of today's students?

- a. Making good grades in school
- b. Wishes for quick money and fame
- c. Becoming celebrities
- d. Examination malpractice

Question 23

Passage - Read the passage and answer the question that follows.

"The standard of education has fallen" is the song found on the lips of almost everyone in our country. This is because today's students have broken the good relationship that yesterday's students had built with education. Let us go back in time. Yesterday, students kept their focus. Education was a priority of every student. However, they faced numerous challenges like lack of adequate electricity, transportation etc. Yet their performances in internal and external examinations were superb. They invested so much pride in the number of awards received on the prize-giving day. For them, examination malpractice was taboo. This was so because no one wanted his or her pride to be wounded. They, therefore, embraced reading their notes and doing assignments at night.

Today, students are driven by the desire to make quick money and fame at their studies' expense. They see education as a painstaking route to success, no wonder why they abandon school to become musicians, footballers and other celebrities. They invest so much pride in the number of expensive mobile phones and iPods they carry. Even though they have access to all the aids to education like adequate electricity, transportation, and technology, their performances in internal and external examinations are nothing to write home about. They spend valuable time on Facebook and WhatsApp, chatting and dating. This normally prevents them from reading their notes and doing assignments. For them, examination malpractice is an accepted academic norm. So why worry?

What is the cause of examination malpractice?

- a. They cannot get prizes at school
- b. The belief that it is the only way to pass
- c. Making of free calls at night
- d. Spending time on WhatsApp and Facebook

Question 24

Passage - Read the passage and answer the question that follows.

"The standard of education has fallen" is the song found on the lips of almost everyone in our country. This is because today's students have broken the good relationship that yesterday's students had built with education. Let us go back in time. Yesterday, students kept their focus. Education was a priority of every student. However, they faced numerous challenges like lack of adequate electricity, transportation etc. Yet their performances in internal and external examinations were superb. They invested so much pride in the number of awards received on the prize-giving day. For them, examination malpractice was taboo. This was so because no one wanted his or her pride to be wounded. They, therefore, embraced reading their notes and doing assignments at night.

Today, students are driven by the desire to make quick money and fame at their studies' expense. They see education as a painstaking route to success, no wonder why they abandon school to become musicians, footballers and other celebrities. They invest so much pride in the number of expensive mobile phones and iPods they carry. Even though they have access to all the aids to education like adequate electricity, transportation, and technology, their performances in internal and external examinations are nothing to write home about. They spend valuable time on Facebook and WhatsApp, chatting and dating. This normally prevents them from reading their notes and doing assignments. For them, examination malpractice is an accepted academic norm. So why worry?

Why does everyone view examinations malpractice as a norm?

- a. It is the order of the day
- b. It is now the culture
- c. It is difficult to pass examination
- d. Everyone is practicing it

Question 25

Choose the nearest meaning to the underlined word(s) as used in the sentence.

Alice's mother was confident that her daughter would win a prize.

- a. determined
- b. certain
- c. anxious
- d. proud

Question 26

Choose the nearest meaning to the underlined word(s) as used in the sentence.

They could not stand the scent in the market.

- a. rush
- ✓ b. smell
- c. sight
- d. heat

Question 27

Choose the nearest meaning to the underlined word(s) as used in the sentence.

The priest resisted the temptation to steal.

- a. refuted
- ✓ b. refused
- c. withstood
- d. withheld

Question 28

Choose the nearest meaning to the underlined word(s) as used in the sentence.

The penalty for stealing in school is instant dismissal.

- ✓ a. punishment
- b. cause
- c. trouble
- d. foul

Question 29

WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE: The Merchant of Venice

Read the following carefully

"A Daniel come to judgment! Yea, a Daniel."

Who is the speaker?

- a. Gratiano
- ✓ b. Shylock
- c. Antonio
- d. Bassanio

Question 30

WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE: The Merchant of Venice

Read the following carefully

"A Daniel come to judgment! Yea, a Daniel."

Who did he refer to as a Daniel?

- a. Portia
- b. Jessica
- c. Nerissa
- ✓ d. Gratiano

Question 31

WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE: The Merchant of Venice

Read the following carefully

"A Daniel come to judgment! Yea, a Daniel."

Shylock agreed to accept the money.

- ✓ a. When he realized he could not take the pound of flesh without a drop of blood.
- b. When he was offered three times the original amount.
- c. When Antonio begged him to accept the money
- d. When he realized that his daughter had stolen all his money.

Question 32

WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE: The Merchant of Venice

Read the following carefully

"A Daniel come to judgment! Yea, a Daniel."

The court ordered shylock to _____.

- a. Leave Venice immediately
- b. Become a Christian
- ✓ c. Stop taking interest
- d. Start eating pork

Question 33

WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE: The Merchant of Venice

Read the following carefully

"A Daniel come to judgment! Yea, a Daniel."

The clown in this play is _____.

- ✓ a. Launcelot Gobbo
- b. Old Gobbo
- c. Tubal
- d. Leonardo

Question 34

WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE: The Merchant of Venice

Read the following carefully.

"A Daniel come to judgment! Yea, a Daniel."

How long did the bond last?

- a. Six years
- b. Six months
- c. Three years
- ✓ d. Three months

Question 35

WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE: The Merchant of Venice

Read the following carefully

"A Daniel come to judgment! Yea, a Daniel."

Who chooses the silver casket?

- a. Prince of Arragon
- b. Prince of Morocco
- ✓ c. Bassanio
- d. Monsieur Le Bon

Question 36

Choose the one which best completes the sentence.

Saio is the _____ of the three girls.

- a. shorter
- b. short
- ✓ c. shortest
- d. very short

Question 37

Choose the word which best completes the sentence.

Janet visits her brother regularly, _____?

- ✓ a. doesn't she
- b. won't she
- c. does she

d. mustn't she

Question 38

Choose the word which best completes the sentence.

Nobody in this class plays in the school team, _____?

✓ a. do they

b. didn't they

c. would they

d. don't they

Question 39

Choose the word which best completes the sentence.

Daddy and Sofie watched the match together, _____?

a. weren't they

b. shouldn't they

✓ c. didn't they

d. did they

Question 40

Choose the word which best completes the sentence.

If he had called me earlier, I could have sent him some money, _____?

✓ a. couldn't I

b. wouldn't I

c. can't I

d. mustn't I

Question 41

Which of the following literary devices is connected with poetry?

a. Plot

b. Rhyme

✓ c. Metaphor

d. Climax

Question 42

'The rain embraced me in her wet arms' is an example of _____.

a. Pun

b. Metaphor

✓ c. Personification

d. Simile

Question 43

The central idea of a literary work is the _____.

a. Setting

✓ b. Theme

c. Verse

d. Scene

Question 44

"Your silence is too loud" is an example of _____.

✓ a. Irony

b. Contrast

c. Paradox

d. Pun

Question 45

The chief female character in a novel or play is called the _____.

a. Queen

b. Foil

c. Antagonist

d. Heroine